Pre-Bidding and Live Sale

This is a Live & Online auction. Bids placed through this website prior to the live sale are considered pre-bids and will be used by the auctioneer during the live sale.

- You can place bids on an item before the auction starts, this is especially helpful if you will not be available on the day of the auction.

- When an item status shows as “Pre-Bidding” this simply means that bids placed are not displayed on the auction site until the date the auction is scheduled to open. Although there may actually be pre-bids placed on the item, an item in pre-bidding status will show # of bids placed as 0 and the current bid (required bid) will show as the opening bid. All pre-bids will be tallied and shown when the auction actually begins.

- You may place a pre-bid through the same process as normal bidding. You can monitor & view your bidding activity on items in pre-bid status from your Watch List.

- When you place a pre-bid, if you are notified that your bid is not higher than another user’s pre-bid this means that another bidder(s) has already placed a pre-bid equal to or higher the amount of the pre-bid you are attempting to place. You will need to raise your pre-bid if you want to be in the highest starting position when the lot is offered during the live sale.

- If you have placed a pre-bid, the auctioneer will use that bid during the live sale according to the bidding process established for the auction. Placing a pre-bid does not guarantee that you will win the lot, as additional bids may be received during the live sale.

- Bidders are strongly encouraged to place their maximum pre-bids before the lot is offered during the live sale. Auction Co. is not responsible for a bidder's failure to place a bid or for bids that are not received due to technical difficulties, internet connectivity, or other circumstances beyond Auction Co.'s control

- There is no guaranteed or predetermined closing time for an individual lot. Posted sale times and lot times are approximate and are provided for scheduling purposes only. During the live sale, the auctioneer will offer each lot for bidding and will determine when bidding has concluded. A lot is considered sold when the auctioneer declares the lot "SOLD."

- The posted auction start time and any estimated lot times, as well as displays of Auction Co.'s current time, are approximate. Auction Co. reserves the right to change the order of lots, delay, extend, or otherwise modify the auction schedule at its discretion.
- All times are based on the posted time zone for the auction or location of the items.
